Wellington SCHOOL

One of the provisions of the Boarding School Allowance scheme is that the minimum parental contribution should be 10% of the actual fees paid.

The Forces Allowance at Wellington School comprises a fixed termly allowance of £100. In addition the School guarantees that the Forces parents will never pay more than the statutory 10% of the actual boarding fees. Therefore, if the Continuity of Education Allowance is less than 90% of the fees, then the School will subsidise the difference with an additional bursary (see Example 1 within). If, on the other hand, the CEA is greater than 90% of the fees, the Forces education allowance regulations allow the balance to be offset against some extras. This adjustment will vary from year to year once fees and CEA amounts have been announced. Figures showing these allowances are indicated in bold in the examples given within.
